Many years ago, when I began hearing about “dog parks,” I was skeptical. As a trainer, it seemed like there were so many ways this idea could go wrong! But as I have witnessed the growth of dog parks and the education of pet owners over the years, I must admit, I was the one that was wrong! Dog parks are an integral part of urban/suburban communities that have far reaching implications beyond a place for a dog to “relieve themselves.” Dog parks are not only places where our dogs can enjoy each other but where owners and pet lovers can find kindred spirits.

With the enormous rise in dog parks across the country, now is a better time than ever to utilize resources provided by BarkPark to create a spectacular dog park – not only for your dog – but for your human friends to enjoy for years to come.

OUR STORY

We LOVE dogs – not just our dogs, but every dog! That’s why we designed dog park equipment to bring communities together all over the world.

Working in the recreation market made us realize that people don’t just take their little ones to the park... but they bring their fur babies too! Dogs are awesome and they play such a vital role in the family unit, so why shouldn’t they have their own dedicated park?!

And so, BarkPark was born. We have taken the time to study not just dog behavior in the park but the community it builds when introduced. Each of our products are researched, tested, and designed with our #1 customer in mind – your dog!

DOG PARK ADVOCACY GUIDE

Unleashed: Off-leash Dog Park Design Trends and Planning Tips

The Unleashed guidebook helps communities effectively advocate for the many benefits of off-leash dog parks. Dog parks provide enjoyable ways to recreate and exercise for both dog owners and their dogs. They also create community destinations. Research shows there are many positive effects for individuals that own a dog(s); as well as health and social benefits of owning a dog, caring for it, and recreating outdoors with pets. In addition, design considerations and case study examples are outlined to effectively design a dog park and champion initiatives that provide meaningful outcomes supporting overall health and social benefits for the community.
